

Online Journals that Require Password

Important Changes: As of 2009, many of the journals (primarily Elsevier titles) no longer offer the online access with passwords. Access to the journals will continue via our institutional subscription and IP authentication however, you must access the journals via the library homepage (via VPN or onsite→electronic journal list or via a database).

The passwords below are required only if you are accessing the journals directly via their website. If you are logged into the VPN or onsite, you should not need the passwords.

If you are being prompted for a password, please check the electronic journal list- years of access available.

If you are having access problems, please contact the library at 717-544-5698.
